

Lunch With Chopsticks

Mrs. Beach wrote the words chopsticks and lunch on a chart. She said, “Children, today we will eat lunch with chopsticks. I will teach you how to hold the chopsticks.”

Mrs. Beach gave the children chopsticks and plates of stir-fried chicken chunks. It was hard to hold the chopsticks at first. Chuck dropped one chopstick. It rolled on the floor. Chuck chased it. He got the chopstick and washed it.

“Chuck, this is how my grandma showed me how to use chopsticks at home,” said May Chun. “It is kind of like holding two pens.”

Chuck tried to use the chopsticks again. He picked up a chicken chunk.

“It is not so hard to use chopsticks!” said Chuck.

Soon, all the children were eating lunch with chopsticks. They chewed chicken and munched pea pods.

“Eating with chopsticks is fun!” said the children.
