

Willy and the Puppy

It was a chilly day. Willy and the puppy stepped outside. The sky was cloudy and gloomy. A breezy wind blew Willy's scarf. It also blew the puppy's floppy ears.

Soon it got very, very windy. Willy and the puppy had to go back inside. "I think it will get stormy," said Willy. "Maybe it will even get snowy!" It had not been snowy in Willy's city for a long, long, time.

Willy and the puppy looked out through the frosty glass. Finally, fluffy snowflakes began to fall! Willy and the puppy were happy. "Mommy, can we play outside?" asked Willy.

Finally, it was not too windy to go outside. Willy and the puppy jumped out into the fluffy snow. Willy and the puppy played and played in the fluffy snow. They even made a snow boy and a snow puppy!
